The DIMMER VIEW

by Max Goodwin

Worthy Project Viewed

A news story is being run elsewhere in this issue about the pathetic events in which a 74-year old local woman has been a two-time victim. She lost her savings in a pigeon-drop a month ago and last week, she lost her household money in a strong-arm robbery.

The woman's name is not being revealed, partly because of the embarrassment it would cause her. It also might encourage wrongdoers to think that her track record makes her a sitting duck for profitable theft, burglary or robbery.

And perhaps that might be right.

The woman had been a $2,400 victim of the pigeon-drop operation in December during the period when older persons who are losing friends and relatives to the grim reaper, feel the need for friendly relationship with those who, because they are younger, have a more practical overview of this vale of tears.

The Christmas spirit must have been strong in this woman when she befriended a couple of young ladies in a shopping center. They encouraged her to draw her bank account dry and put in the money in "good faith" to help them — and to reap a profit for herself.

She needed friendship and the money. But she lost the money. The friendship, she must have realized, never did exist.

Last week, after she visited the grave of her husband, a young punk knocked her down while she waited at a bus stop and wrenched her purse away.

Two great crises in a 30 day span is unsettling to anyone, even those young and flexible.

Dick Rabell, an officer in the sheriff's fraud department gave her what consolation he could. He had handled the pigeon-drop operation and has pursued the case with such vigor that the guilty woman has been identified. It is but a matter of time until she is picked up by police.

His consolation was a noble gesture because some police view such victims as stupid.

But where can the elderly turn for unbiased advice?

To other elderly persons who might be as gullible as they, themselves?

To a neighbor who may have so many problems of her own that she can't take the time to help another?

This brings up the point for which this material is being reviewed in this column.

Why not a service club taking on a half-dozen of these senior citizens as a visitation project? An hour's visit could count as a make-up. And all clubs demand regular attendance. Make-ups are required by most clubs. An hour's session would pay dividends beyond the dream of many younger people — younger being under 60. Most of those who are aged but in good physical condition play little games to keep the visit going a little longer. The yearning for warm, human, rational contact is strong. Often they cling to the hand of the visitor when goodbye time comes.

Those who participate in such contact will be among the sainted few who have come to understand the true meaning of human kindness.

There is no financing involved. Most of such elderly people have seniors' incomes. They would be embarrassed if money were discussed.

The thing they want is the thing only you can give — the warm expression of human kindness.

For those who want to participate and don't know how, contact us. We'll get a program rolling. And it'll make the year for you.

WHEN THE RAINS CAME — Puddling and flooding such as above occurred in many parts of the community as the rain total for the week neared 5 inches. There were mudslides, too, but none resulted in property damage the local Fire Department said.

4.72-Inch Rainfall Brings Floods, Slides

The Fire Department, usually called upon to put out fires, was putting out water last week.

They answered numerous calls to "vacuum, pump and divert" rainwater which came into garages and homes.

There were calls for aid when mud began to slide and in most instances, fireman organized community aid projects and went on to the next water problem.

"We couldn't devote 2 or 3 hours to any one thing. We did what we could; told victims what ought to be done, and moved on," one fireman said.

Mud slide aid was given Lawford ct. and Dartmore, but no property damage was caused.

The heaviest rain came on Sunday, January 15 when the total was 2. 3 inches.

The rain calendar starting with the present storm looked like this:

11— .32
12— .01
13— none
14— .39
15—2.63
16— .03
17—1.20
18— .05

Total for the storm — 4.72. Season total to date 11.62. For the same period last year the total 7.13

Last year, January 1 to the end of the season (July 1) the total of 5.70.

Forecasters said Wednesday there is another storm on the way.

Water Management in Future Supervisor Moore Tells Council

Supervisor chairman Lucille Moore, who may properly be described as the "mother of Lemon Grove" (she sponsored the incorporation idea) was a wet visitor Monday night at the L.G. City Council meeting.

Still dripping, she said she came to discuss the water shortage. And to a degree she did. She explained the need for a Quality Water Management study plan.

Under the plan, 5 zones under CPO (Comprehensive Planning Organization) would overview quality, use and reclamation of water and flood. It would coordinate existing efforts allowing lawmakers to decide some water management problems. For the first time, drainage basin water would come under water management. Various water, waste and flood groups will likely be coordinated, she indicated.

The council also heard R. Whitmore read a letter urging the council to give authority to the L.G. Planning Assn. or disband it. The letter was directed to staff.

On the agenda, later was an item for creating a planning commission. Action was deferred to be considered again on February 6.

Bertha Huertero announced that an East County Regional Advisory Board has been formed and that the group was being charged $7 for the use of the Community Center. She said the facility should be free of charge.

Lee Bodin, coordinator of the council's Recreation and Human Services Task Force, reported that his group of 32 volunteers had held 5 meetings.

There are several needs, he said. The more pressing one is for a system of economical transportation for senior citizens.

A community theatrical program, he announced, has been formed and rehearsals for a production will be held in February. No city funding is anticipated.

The council approved the vacation of a portion of Nichals st. near Monterey Heights school. The vacation will benefit the Little League park which touches on one side of the unused street. The requirement, as explained by Lloyd Sime of LEUR, is that some land be dedicated for a cul de sac against eventual need.

Mayor Jim Dorman repeated a prior invitation to the public to come to the "brown-bag" luncheon meetings at City Hall on the Tuesday prior to the Monday council meetings. Councilmembers have brown-bag sandwiches and coffee. Visiors may bring a sandwich. Coffee will be supplied.

Citizens are reminded that Council meetings will be changed to Community Center, 3146 School lane.

More seating capacity is needed, Mayor Dorman explained as he announced the move. That meeting is 7:30 p.m. February 6. The move, he said, is permanent.

Council to Move

The City Council is moving its meeting place.

Beginning February 6 the group will meet at the Community Center (formerly Youth Center) at 3146 School lane.

Until now, meetings had been in the Education Center at Skyline and Lincoln.

Meetings will be as usual at 7:30 p.m. on the 1st and 3rd Mondays.

THE CANYON BEFORE AND AFTER extensive flood control drains were installed and fields built for the Lemon Grove Little League. Last February (top) League volunteers installed $9,000 worth of drainage pipe in the canyon. The filling in of the canyon began in September and is scheduled for completion in the next few weeks. One of the installed storm drains (bottom) juts from canyon fill dirt.

Elderly Pigeon Drop Victim Becomes 'Strong Arm' Loser

A 74-year old Lemon Grove woman, who was the victim of a pigeon drop on December 16 in which she was victimized of $2,400, was victim of a strong-arm robbery January 16.

According to deputy Dick Rabell of the Sheriff's Fraud Unit, the woman had been visiting her husband's grave in an Imperial ave. cemetery and was waiting for a bus when a black male, approximately 18 years of age, grabbed her purse, throwing her to the ground. Her arm was injured in trying to hold onto her purse but the robber forced it from her and escaped.

The purse contained $50 plus personal cards and papers.

In the December loss, the victim, who lives on Drexell dr., was approached in a shopping center by two females — one of whom Rabell said, had earlier ripped off an elderly woman of $17,000 in a similar crime.

They claimed to have found a large sum of money and proposed to cut her in for one-third for her advice and guidance. Such a caper is known as a pigeon drop.

She agreed but was told she would have to put up a certain amount of "good faith" money. She withdrew $2,400 from her bank account. The conspirators, one of whom claimed to be employed by a Lemon Grove attorney, said the attorney would hold the money until the proper time had elapsed to make it "found" money.

Obviously, the attorney knew nothing about it. The suspects had taken the woman's money and fled.

It was the third pigeon drop in Lemon Grove in recent months.

Rabell said that one of the "droppers" was involved in other such operations. A black woman with whom she had operated the scheme was picked up in Los Angeles with enough evidence to hold her for a "mighty long time," Rabell said.

In the case of the December drop, the remaining suspect — a white woman — had a new accomplice. Rabell said the hold-over woman had been identified and would be picked up soon because there is a $50,000 warrant out for her arrest.

Meanwhile, it was suggested that elderly persons become victims because they lose contact with the prosaic world as their friends and relatives die.

Service clubs seeking useful projects might want to help bring today's world into focus for these senior citizens by arranging an occasional visit, he said.

New Estimate Reads $2-1/2 Million for RR

State officials estimate it would take some $2.5 million to repair the storm-damaged San Diego and Arizona Eastern Railway, nearly twice as much as original estimates of one year ago.

According to U.S. Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin who initiated the study, the original estimate was set at $1.27 million.

The rail line suffered damage to its tracks which run from San Diego, through Lemon Grove, to El Centro from Huricane Kathleen of September 1976.

L.G. Pornshop Ordered to Label Film, Concoctions

Two deputies of the Sheriff's Vice Detail, and an inspector of the County Department of Weights and Measures last week ordered the B&W Bookstore in Lemon Grove to remove certain items from the store's shelves.

The establishment is at 1822 Skyline dr.

Potions, lotions and erotic films were said to be in violation of Section 12611 of the California Business and Professions Code.

The shop's operator, identified as Stanley Turley, Jr. was ordered to remove those items which did not properly display the identity of the substances in the potions and lotions. The films did not display the running time of eoticism, according to Weights and Measures.

Among the items deficit in labeling, according to the two departments, were Prolong Pills, Love Jell, Spanish Fly and other items which did not properly display the ingredients of the concoctions, according to deputies.

The items were removed from the shelves and are not to be displayed again until the information required by law was indicated by label on the packages.

The same operation included an adult book store in Vista where similar infractions were found.

20 Years in the Works

New LG Little League Park Takes Shape in Heights Canyon

By Fred Ash

The group of Lemon Grove residents who had a dream some 20 years ago to turn a flood prone canyon into a Little League Park will see their dream come true this April.

The struggle by the community and the supporters of Little League will culminate April 24 as teams take to new baseball fields behind Monterey Heights School, fields which were some two years ago nothing more than a troublesome canyon.

The problems confronting the dedicated band of baseball park supporters seemed monumental — county requirements, weather, vandalism, funding, and even skepticism.

But somehow through a haze of confusion a good idea broke through — an idea to give kids something else to get into rather than trouble.

No one is exactly certain anymore whose idea it was originally to expand the existing Little League facilities.

But the idea sprang up in 1958 to expand Lemon Grove Little League, shortly after the League became a non-profit corporation.

Eventually, some 7½ acres of land was purchased between the two existing ball diamonds of Monterey Heights park and land on Glencoe drive on which sits Monterey Heights School.

The 7½ acres contained one flood prone canyon and defunct Bakersfield street, an unpaved and rarely used street.

From that point, the Governing board of the League and active citizens embarked on their project which was to have an eventual price tag of more than $140,000.

Problems

Even though the League owned the canyon which posed drainage problems, the county at first bawked at issuing construction permits.

According to League spokesman, Dan Danner, the League went back and forth with the county "five or six times" before an ultimate compro-

There's An Answer

By Mr. and Mrs. Norman Vincent Peale

Lost Mother

Q. I lost my mother a year ago. The loss has left me "absolutely lost."

I made a home for my mother for the last 28 years and I feel as though half of me went with her.

I have lost weight, I can't seem to stop crying, and I am having deep emotional problems. She was my strength and was always there to help me.

I have prayed and prayed to get over this but there must be something wrong with my prayers.

Rather than finding that "time will heal" I miss her more each passing day. Can you tell me something that will release me from my agony?

A. First of all, you have not lost your mother. Remember what the American poet Whittier said: "Love can never lose its own." I once thought I had lost my mother, too, but I feel her nearness often. And so will you.

Another thing, since you love your mother and will do just anything for her, then give up your grief. It isn't helping her, and it is ruining you.

Your mother doesn't want your life ruined. You can make her happiness complete by adjusting to her absence.

Time will heal if you do the above and go on living your life as your mother surely wants you to do.

We have a booklet, "Help Yourself with God's Help," that has brought comfort to others with questions such as yours and a copy of it is on its way to you. Anyone else wishing a free copy may write to us in care of Box 500, Pawling, NY 12564.

Sex without Marriage?

Q. I've been a widow for four years and I had two happy marriages.

My question, can I have a friendly relationship without sex? Friends tell me I cannot. And they say it is O.K. to have a sex relationship if both parties' mates have passed away.

The way I was trained, it still is adultery unless you are married. Make this clear to me.

A. The loose and permissive morality of the present day would likely not look askance at sex without marriage. But you know such action could be wrong and a violation of the principles of responsible Christian living.

It is perfectly possible for two mature, upright people to have a pleasant, friendly relationship, with a clear understanding that there will be no sex involved.

Confused by Psychic

Q. I have met a delightful person who claims to be a psychic, and I believe she is.

Now my mind is all mixed up, for our church and our minister are against such things.

I've never before considered reincarnation but now in the face of her evidence — I don't know. I've never thought my life was planned down to when I will move or have sickness or trouble with the children or get a new job — now I don't know.

This Psychic can tell about my entire family, though she's never met them. Some say it is witchcraft. What do you say? Is this sacrilege or can a person have such powers?

A. Some people seem to be endowed with peculiarly sensitive perceptiveness. They can, as you say, give evidence of rather extraordinary ability, sometimes even to have precognitive awareness — that is, to prophesy something that has not yet happened.

This is not witchcraft. It is simply an extra ability along a certain line, and we assure you it is extremely limited in most cases.

You would be wise to look upon such a phenomenon as merely that; and certainly do not allow it to affect your life.

If there is something you would like to ask Dr. and Mrs. Peale to discuss in this column, write to them in care of Box 500, Pawling, NY 12564.

Presidency Changed For Helix District

Helix Water District Vice President Robert Rundell has been elected president replacing 19 year veteran Harry Griffen.

Rundell was elected to the post earlier this month and he has been a member of the board since 1953.

The newest member of the board is Harold Ball, principal of San Altos School in Lemon Grove. Ball is the first newcomer to the Helix water chiefs since 1959.

Scrapped School Program Shows Gains in Test Scores

SACRAMENTO . . . Children enrolled in California's Early Childhood Education (ECE) Program, a program which will eventually be phased out, scored above the national average in reading and mathematics last year, Wilson Riles, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, has reported.

This conclusion, Riles said, is based on data from nationally normed tests reported by local school districts.

Riles based the increases to parent participation.

"It is most gratifying to report success," he added, "but ECE is much more than a way to boost scores in basic subjects. For example, it offers parents, teachers and principals at each school an opportunity to plan systematically what they want for their children, and how it will be achieved."

"This opportunity for participation is being accepted by astounding numbers," he added. "The number of volunteers in the state's elementary and secondary schools increased by 147,000 between 1976-76 and 1976-77 — from 81,000 to 228,000."

Alexander I. Law, chief of the State Department of Education's Office of Program Evaluation and Research, released the results of the ECE achievement gains and evaluation results of compensatory education programs for disadvantaged children in a new report to the State Board of Education.

He said students in ECE schools and students enrolled in compensatory education programs made greater progress in reading and mathematics than the national average.

Third grade students in ECE schools scored 50.4 in reading when they began the school year and 53.8 at the end, compared to a national average of 50, Law said.

Their initial test score on mathematics was 49.2 and their year-end score was 52.7, or 2.7 points above the national average.

Third grade students enrolled in compensatory education programs for the disadvantaged scored 44.2 at the beginning of the year in reading; at the end of the year their score was 47.7, only 2.7 points below the national average.

In math, their beginning score was 44.2; it was 47.7 at the end of the year.

Law said a long-term look at ECE between 1973 and 1977, based on California Assessment Program data, shows that third grade students in ECE "generally had higher reading scores than students in those schools had before the schools entered ECE."

From 1975 to 1977, Law added, students in ECE schools made greater gains in reading achievements than students in a similar group of non-ECE schools.

The report to the board also included the results of department case studies of factors associated with increases or decreases in reading achievement. Highlights included the following:

- A strong positive relationship was found between reading achievement gains in the third grade and a low ratio of students to adults in the classroom.
- Students were absent less often in classrooms in which the ratio of students to adults is lower than in classrooms in which the ratio is high.
- Classroom environments in which teachers provided systematic instruction and a great deal of positive reinforcement contributed to gains in third grade reading achievement.
- Higher expectations for what children can learn seemed to be related to improved pupil achievement, suggesting that staff expectations should be raised in many schools. This was especially true for schools with high minority populations.

This Week's RECIPE

Beef Souffle Recipe

For those who, during the week, hardly find time for a cup of coffee in the morning, leave alone a full breakfast, a lazy and delicious brunch on Sundays of holidays might be a welcome relief. Some fruit with ice cream would make a perfect appetizer to a hearty brunch beef souffle and shortens the time required for the souffle's preparation.

1 pound ground beef or beef sausage
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
⅛ teaspoon pepper
6 eggs
1½ cups milk
5 slices bread, cubed
4 ounces Swiss cheese, shredded
1 tablespoon diced pimiento

Brown ground beef in large frying-pan; pour off drippings. Sprinkle salt, nutmeg and pepper over ground beef; let cool. Beat eggs well; beat in milk and fold in bread cubes, cheese and pimiento. Stir in cooled ground beef. Place mixture in well-greased 8 x 8-inch casserole or utility dish; cover and refrigerate overnight. Bake in a slow oven (325°F.) for 1 hour 10 minutes. Let stand 5 minutes before cutting into serving-size pieces. 6 to 8 servings.

Golf Tournament Nationally Televised

11th Andy Williams Open Comes to S.D. Wednesday

One of the major sports events of the year in San Diego County, the Andy Williams San Diego Open golf tournament will take place at Torrey Pines golf course Wednesday through Sunday, January 25-29.

Highlighting the 11th renewal of the nationally-televised event is the appearance here of defending champion Tom Watson, Golfer of the Year for 1977 and a winner in the first PGA tour stop in 1978, the recent Joe Garagiola - Tucson Open.

Watson also won the Masters and British Open last year as well as the Bing Crosby Pro-Am and the Western Open. His $310,653 in 1977 U.S. earnings is the third highest in history.

With many big names still expected to enter up to next Sunday's deadline, the $200,000 AWSDO already boasts Tom Weiskopf, winner of the first AWSDO in 1968 and fifth in career earnings; Ray Floyd, former PGA and Masters Champion; Miller Barber, who has 10 career wins; and Bill Kratzert, 1977 Greater Hartfield Open titlist. All are among the top 10 in 1977 earnings.

Other prominent entries include Andy Bean, Jerry McGee, Mark Hayes, George Archer, Graham Marsh, Leonard Thompson and Beorge Burns from the top 25 on the money list; former U.S. Open titlists Bill Casper and Orville Moody; the colorful Doug Sanders; and Ken Brown, British Ryder Cup team champion.

Festivities will start with a $10,000 Celebrity Pro-Am Wednesday, featuring the top pros, amateurs from all over the continent and some of the most famous names in the worlds of show business and sports.

Among invitees who play here regularly are Bob Hope, Lawrence Welk, Flip Wilson, Fred McMurray, Efrem Zimbalist, Glen Campbell, Buck Owens, Don Knotts, George Blanda, Willie Mays, Randy Jones, Joe Morgan and Don Drysdale.

Qualifying for the Open will take place at North Torrey Pines and Lomas Santa Fe courses on Monday for prequalifiers from the Southern California PGA Section and for non-exempt touring PGA pros.

The Celebrity Pro-Am will be played on both North and South Torrey Pines as will the first two days of the Open. The final two days are on the South course.

Hall of Champs Cites Gridders

Multi-talented Rolf Benirschke, rookie place kicker for the San Diego Chargers, along with Lincoln High's Marcus Allen and San Diego State's Joe Davis, share December Star of the Month recognition from the Hall of Champions Breitbard Athletic Awards Committee.

Benirschke, a graduate of La Jolla High and UC Davis, was the professional choice for setting a club record of 12 consecutive field goals, and he'll enter the 1978 campaign aiming at the NFL record of 16 held by Cleveland's Don Cockroft. In all, he clicked on 17 of 24 field goal tries and added 21 of 24 conversion attempts to account for 72 points.

Winner of Pro Football Weekly's Golden Toe award for his showing against Denver, Benirschke also is gaining distinction as a student researcher, devoting his spare time to scientific work in the laboratory at the San Diego Zoo.

Regarded one of the finest all-around prep athletes in recent years, Allen was voted co-amateur Star of the Month with Davis for pacing Lincoln to the CIF football championship, setting four records in the process. He's unusual in that he plays both defensive back and quarterback on offense, and in the title game against Kearny he rushed for 197 yards, scoring all five touchdowns, one of them on a 60-yard jaunt after an interception and another on an 85-yard gallop from scrimmage.

Allen was named the County's high school player of the year, was a unanimous choice for the All-CIF team and was picked on Parade magazine's prep All-America lineup.

Davis played a key role as State's Aztecs finished a 10-1 season, and against San Jose he flipped four touchdown passes, the last a 32 yarder under pressure to give his team a 37-34 decision.

In that contest he completed 22 of 40 passes for 325 yards and was, for the second time during the year, selected by ABC-TV as offensive player of the game. His total of 24 touchdown throws was topped nationally only by highly-regarded Doug Williams of Grambling and is the second best mark in Aztec history.

The Awards Committee also granted a Certificate of Achievement to Chris Malmgren, ex-Grossmont College defensive tackle now at Boise State.

It is scheduled for Saturday 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Michael Jackson, local director of Teen Challenge, 7111 El Cajon blvd., said "The youth of San Diego County are indebted to Jack In The Box Restaurants for all the time and effort they have contributed to make the first walk a success."

Children are advised to pick up the sponsor forms at JoB restaurants.

TAKE FIVE

by John E. Wirges

It was my pleasure, a few years ago, to witness the most arrogant, high handed, swaggering, rollicking, exulting and swashbuckling display of golf ever recorded before these tired eyes.

Two young giants of the game, head on head like a couple of billy goats, reaching back to last Thursday for every ounce of mustard, trying to out duel each other off the tee.

It was beautiful. Real raw power. Drive after drive out of sight. It wasn't golf. It wasn't smart. They didn't help their team. But by the virtue of my dear sweet maiden Aunt Hatty, it was dirt scratching deep down, honest sport.

It was a fittin' challenge to match the best of the gladiators against the lions in the sportin' rinks of old Rome. No quarter was asked, nor given. It was a fight all the way, and as I remember it, there wasn't even a winner.

It happened out at Carlton Oaks during the San Diego State hosted 1974 NCAA Golf Tournament. The titans involved were Craig Stadler, of San Diego and USC and Andy Bean, of Florida State. They were matched against each other in the third round of play when both schools were very much in the running for the National title.

Their collision probably cost their schools enough strokes to knock them out of the championship. Wake Forest nipped Florida State by two strokes and USC finished a distant fourth or something.

But the pride, hutzpah or what ever it is that blends steel into the will of an athlete, that something that makes the difference between a challenger and a member of the crowd, a winner and an also ran, stake's champions or the horses I bet on, comes from just such exercises as happened at the Carlton Oaks golf works those few years ago.

It has come to pass, for those of us who enjoy such scrambling, that both these combatants are likely challengers for Tom Watson's current Andy Williams-San Diego Open crown.

Of course, Watson will be back to defend his title, and a host of veterans and charging youngsters the likes of Bean and Stadler will give Torrey Pines a besiegement worthy of the horde of young turks assaulting the coffers of the Professional Golf Association tour these days. It'll be a helluva tourney.

The San Diego contingent alone is demanding of respect and worthy of a suitable gallery. John Schroeder is playing some of the best golf of his life. Escondido's Gary McCord is one of the newest, along with Jack Denner and Stadler, to fly San Diego Colors from the PGA tour, but they're going quite well and playing up to the level of more seasoned pros like Gene Litler, Lon Hinkle, Jack Spradlin, Jr. and Victor Gegalado.

Add two time NCAA Champion Scott Simpson to the AWSDO roster of players, thanks to the kindness of the committee who gifted the talented swinger with an exemption.

Scott, who would have fit right in on that Stadler-Bean blitzkreig of '74, will be off on the Asian PGA tour following the AWSDO to polish his tournament skills in preparation for a second assault on the PGA tour school this spring.

Simpson blew his first shot with a horrendous 10 on one hole of the second round of the qualifying series in the fall school. Even with his tremendous talent, he's one of us.

Tickets for the AWSDO are on sale everywhere, from golf shops, to banks, sporting goods stores and the Special Services ticket windows of all area military bases. Get a couple today then pick a likely pair of young pros and follow them in the early rounds. You just might see another battle of titans.

And ain't that what watching the pros is all about?

2 Title Bouts Carded At Coliseum Tuesday

Two matches are attracting attention on next week's professional wrestling card at the San Diego Coliseum.

The world's middleweight championship will be at stake with El Faraon defending his title against Coliso Colosetti of Argentina.

In ad added hazard, there will be no disqualification rules, which means almost anything goes. Both are noted as being rough grapplers.

Then there is the San Diego Belt. In the opening contest of the card, semi-finalist Hector Guerro goes against the Canadian and Roddy Piper meets Johnny Rivera. The winners of each of these matches will compete for the San Diego crown in the last bout of the evening.

There will also be a 3 plus 3 plus three match. Outlaw Ron Bass, Hiro Ota and Rick McGraw are the scrappers. In this bout 2 wrestlers start and the winner takes on the 3rd party. The first gladiator to win 2 falls in a row is declared the winner.

Insolo is 'Systems Go' At Riverside Opener

RIVERSIDE — As the 1978 stock car racing season opens Saturday and Sunday at Riverside International Raceway the big news in the West centers around Jimmy Insolo of Mission Hills, CA.

Insolo will make his debut in the $147,470 Winston Western 500 at the wheel of the same '76 Chevrolet that Portland, Ore., driver Chuck Bown drove to the Winston West Grand National championship two years ago.

Bown almost repeated in 1977, finishing second to champion Bill Schmitt of Redding, CA.

Bown and the Lakes Drywall team of Tacoma parted company at the end of the season. Insolo was surprised when he picked up his phone one day to hear car owner Gerald Craker offer him the ride.

The unexpected driver change only slightly overshadows the significance of Insolo's avowed goal for Riverside's companion race, the Stock Car Products 300 for NASCAR modified-sportsman stock cars, scheduled Saturday.

Like a modern Babe Ruth, Insolo has "called his shot" by predicting he will better his own impressive speed record on the 2.62-mile, eight-turn Riverside road course.

Insolo's record of 115.721 mph is a remarkable benchmark, because when he set it last June—there was no previous record for modified stock cars—he also bettered the all-time record for any kind of stock car, 113.310 mph by Parnelli Jones in 1970. Jones had set his record before NASCAR slowed the cars with carburetion and tire restrictions.

In the '76 Camaro which Insolo drove to victory June in the Black Gold 200, he will try to raise the mark to 117 mph or better, he said. He has openly predicted that he plans to chop 1.5 seconds from his record elapsed time of 1:21.506 (compared with Parnelli's 1:23.24).

"All that talk about cutting a second and a half off the record, that was just to get the other guys excited," reported Insolo, whose other important wins last season included the USAC Datsun Twin 200 at Ontario. "I can't possibly do that, but I'd like to get down in the 1:20s. That would be about 117 miles an hour."

Insolo is one of the leading boosters of modified open competition stock car racing. After his win last June Insolo made his favorable comparison of modifieds with Winston Cup stock cars:

"I drove a Grand National car yesterday, and it felt like I was trying to drive a wheelbarrow. I like these light cars (modifieds). They run like a rocket off the slow corners. You stand on the gas and you really feel like you've got ahold of something."

Insolo's Camaro is his own, and he will campaign it all season when he's not contesting for the one title that has eluded him, Winston West Grand National.

S.D. Soccers Sign Two

The San Diego Sockers of the North American Soccer League have signed two players for the 1978 season, one of which is the club's leading scorer from the '77 campaign.

Forward Gerry Ingram led the Sockers in goal-production last season (in Las Vegas), scoring seven goals and adding four assists for 18 points. A 3-year veteran of the NASL, the 30-year-old Englishman is entering his second season with the Sockers.

Marvin Milkes, Sockers' General Manager, said, "We originally acquired Gerry because he was a hard worker and a goal scorer, and he's lived up to both reputations. His size and strength make him the target man in our offense, and his hustle is an inspiration to the whole team."

San Diego also came to terms with the "Iron Man" of the franchise, defender Brian Joy.

The 5-9, 160 pound backliner has played every minute of every game for the past two seasons, including the 1976 year in San Diego. Joy is originally from Manchester, England.

"Brian is the offensive-minded defender we need for effective overlapping," said Milkes. "He has scored 16 points (5 goals, 6 assists) in two seasons, and a team needs a defender like him to keep the opposition honest."

All-NASL Midfielder Wolfgang Suhnholz has exercised a termination clause in his contract, and his appearance in a San Diego uniform is doubtful. Said Milkes, "Wolfgang is able to terminate as a result of the shift in the franchise, and he's free to negotiate with any club he wants. We haven't reached any type of agreement with him for 1978."

Sockers' Head Coach Hubert Vogelsinger is continuing his European search for players.

$35,000 Las Damas Carded at Alamitos

LOS ALAMITOS—The $35,000-added Las Damas on Saturday, which traditionally decides the mare championship for the meet, and the trials for the $150,000 (ect.) El Primero/Del Ano Derby for colts and geldings on Friday head the racing action this weekend at Los Alamitos.

During the week senior citizens are admitted to the grandstand for a dollar Monday through Thursday and all patrons get into the grandstand for a dollar on Wednesday.

The 58-date HQHRA meet continues Monday through Sunday evenings with a 7:45 p.m. first post time.

Little Blue Sheep, the leading contender for national aged mare honors in 1977, brings a career bankroll of over $300,000 into the Las Damas.

Padres Take 4 In Winter Draft

The San Diego Padres went exclusively for pitchers during the Regular Phase of baseball's annual Winter Free Agent Draft as the club chose the rights to two lefthanded hurlers and a pair of righthanders.

Reading up the list of selections for the Padres was lefthander Don Johnson who dropped out of E. Michigan U. in October in order to be eligible for this phase of the draft.

The Padres are, of course, acutely aware of Eastern Michigan since that's the college rookie sensation Bob Owchinko attended prior to donning San Diego colors.

Johnson is 5-11, 170 and the 18-year-old was in his first year at Eastern Michigan when he opted to drop out.

"We didn't expect to get a lot out of this phase of the draft," said Padres Vice President-General Manager Bob Fontaine. "There were no prominent names available and our best hope was to get a few kids with raw tools who hopefully can come on for us."

Then, in the second round, the Padres chose highthander Jeff Stottlemyre, the younger brother of former New York Yankee pitcher Mel Stottlemyre. A freshman at Yakima Junior College in Washington, Stottlemyre is 18 years old and is 6-2, 165 pounds.

San Diego's third selection was lefthander Ed Van de Berg, a 19-year-old sophomore at San Bernardino Valley College. Van de Berg is 6-0, 170 pounds.

Completing the Padres list of picks in the Regular Phase was fourth round choice Jim Tunell. A righthander, Tunell is a 6-1, 183 pound 18-year-old freshman at San Joaquin Delta College in Stockton.

SV Housing Complex Boast 724 Homes

By mid-year, something more than $46 million in real estate development will be under way in Rancho San Diego.

7 construction companies have precise plans for production of 724 homes in the project. Three of these companies will have $26.6 million in construction started by mid-March. The announcement was made by Frank R. Parks, general manager of Rancho San Diego.

Triple Jumper Willie Banks Headed for JiB Indoors Mete

UCLA's Willie Banks, one of the world's finest triple jumpers, has entered the 12th annual Jack in the Box Invitational track and field meet, which will be held February 17 at the San Diego Sports Arena.

Banks, an Oceanside High School standout, has matured into a potential gold medal threat for the 1980 Olympic Games in Moscow.

The lean, outgoing Banks has enjoyed great success at UCLA. He is one of a handful of Americans ever to leap more than 56 feet in the event. The 6-foot-3, 165-pounder, now approaching his 22nd birthday(on March 11) rarely competes indoors, so this rare appearance may be a prelude to a big season.

Banks, a senior at UCLA, is considered a threat to the indoor world record of 56-3½ set by three-time Olympic gold medalist Viktor Saneyev of the Soviet Union. And Banks' competition at San Diego figures to be stiff, even though all entries are not yet in.

Jack in the Box meet Chairman Al Franken reports that interest in the meet is running at an all-time high as far as athletes are concerned. "The problem is not going to be lining up a field," said Franken, "but in nicely telling a fine athlete there's no place for him."

Tennis Nearly Claimed Kathy Crosby Favorite

Amy Alcott, who has won $145,558 in 3 years as a golf professional, figures she made the correct decision between swinging a racquet or a driver.

"I nearly decided on a tennis career and now I'm certainly glad I didn't," the 21-year-old Alcott said as she filed her entry for the $165,000 Kathrwn Crosby-Honda Civic Golf Classic March 15-19 at Rancho Bernardo.

Alcott, a product of the California Junior Girls Golf Assn., also was considered to possess significant tennis talent. But as her handicap dropped, her choice of careers became obvious.

"Women tennis players possibly have received more publicity and recognition than golf players," she said. "But I believe we're catching up. There's more talent spread among far more women on the golf tour and our purses, thanks to sponsors like Honda, have grown significantly in the past few years."

Alcott was the 14th leading money winner last year earning $47,637. This was a drop from her $71,122 return as a sophomore.

"I played about the same (her scoring average was 73.54 in 1976 and 73.57 in 1777) but the competition was tougher," she said. "Also, I had my opportunities to win tournaments but just couldn't seem to come through at the right time.",

Her one tournament win was at Houston but she did finish in the top 10 on ten occasions.

"Overall, I wasn't displeased with my performance," Alcott, rookie of the year in 1975, said. "I can't be impatient, but I don't want to over believe I'm not capable of doing better.

"I especially want to do well in the Honda tournament. I have a lot of friends in the San Diego area developed from playing in junior events and I guess I'd like to show off for them."

The Crosby-Honda event which will attract more than 100 women professionals will be played for the first time over the rolling Rancho Bernardo course and again will feature celebrity players for the weekend's final two rounds.

The Beneficiary will be the Children's Hospital and Health Center of San Diego. The purse of $165,000 is the second largest on the LPGA tour.

Special advance season tickets representing a major savings over daily gallery tickets may be purchased now either by calling the Children's Hospital or the Rancho Bernardo Inn.

Baseball Types Will Dominate Pala Tee Tourney

Frank Tanana, Bert Blyleven, Don Sutton and Rollie Fingers head an All-Star quality lineup of major league pitchers scheduled to start in the Vantage-TV Guide Sports Celebrity Golf Tournament February 6-7 at Pala Mesa Country Club.

Tanana finished among the top 10 in last year's event while Blyleven, Sutton and Fingers all are rated strong contenders in this year's 36-hole tournament.

If they need any advice around the greens, they might receive directions from managers Alvin Dark, Dick Williams, Gene Mauch and Bobby Winkles who will be participating.

A field of nearly 50 baseball and football sports stars will play in the fourth renewal of the event that is sponsored by the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. and TV Guide. The public is invited to watch the event at no charge.

Kelcher, Washington Report to Pro Bowl

Defensive tackle Louie Kelcher and tackle Russ Washington, the San Diego Chargers' participants in the AFC-NFC Pro Bowl, have reported to the AFC Pro Bowl camp in Tampa.

The game, eighth in the AFC-NFC series, will be played in Tampa Stadium Monday, beginning at 6 p.m. (PST).

It will be televised in San Diego on Channel 10.

Washington and Kelcher were chosen in balloting by squads and head coaches of the 14 American Football Conference teams. For Washington, this marked the third time in the last four seasons and the third time in his 10-season pro career with the Chargers that he has been selected to represent the AFC. Kelcher, a third-year veteran, was chosen for the first time.

Kelcher led the Chargers with 75 tackles and 33 unassisted tackles in 1977. He amassed 11 quarterback sacks for 94 yards in losses despite missing two games in the middle of the season with a stiff neck. Kelcher's sack total was second on the squad to Gary Johnson's 13 for 129 yards in losses.

Washington was a bulwark in the Chargers' offensive line. He had an especially productive game in the 12-77 victory over Oakland Nov. 20, when the Chargers set a club record with 58 rushing attempts that gained 263 yards.

Kelcher is the thirty-fourth Chargers player since the 1961 season to be selected to pay in an American Football League All-Star game or AFC-NFC Pro Bowl. The AFC-NFC Pro Bowl began after the 1970 season, first of the merged AFL-NFL.

Racquetball Tournament Draws Top Women

Women's professional racquetball will attempt to make strides in public recognition beginning today in Omaha when, for the first time in the sport's history, Sports Courts of Omaha will host the first Colgate Professional Women's Racquetball Tournament.

The tournament — January 19-22 — is con-sponsored by Seamco and Leach and is sanctioned by the National Racquetball Club.

To date, women's tournaments have always been combined with the men's, but a national explosion by the sport encompassing players, equipment, facilities and sponsors has created sufficient public demand for women to stage their own tour stop.

30 top women pros from across the nation will compete for over $5,000 in prize money while, concurrently, over 200 amateur men and women juniors through seniors players will compete in 11 divisions in amateur tournament play.

Pro tournament play begins today with finals starting at noon on Sunday.

Registrar of Voters To Hold Open House

The San Diego County Registrar of Voters will hold an open house at the new office location — 5201-I Ruffin rd., San Diego, noon-3 p.m. Friday.

The Registrar's operation was moved from its Overland dr. location to the Ruffin road address in mid-December.

The Registrar of Voters' operations are contained in the new 45,000 square-foot facility, including 89 votronic machines and 5 buffer units.

Telephone numbers remain the same for the offices.

Border-to-Border Cycle Trip Ends

A bicycle racing volunteer of San Diego Lung Assn. will complete a 2-day bicycle trip down the western coast of the United States from Vancouver Canada, to Tijuana, Mexico, on Saturday.

Al Woolum, a senior at S.D. State U., made the 1,000-mile journey to build awareness of the "life and breath" concerns of the Lung Assn.

His travel was primarily down the U.S. 101 coast route. He was accompanied on the trip by another experienced racer, 22-year-old Rob Templin. Templin, also a State senior, won the 1977 Tijuana Road Race.

"We took the coastal route hoping to avoid the cold," Woolum said. "Bicycles lose all traction on snow-covered roads, even though cars can drive on them." During their journey, the cyclists encountered icy roads, temperatures as low as 20°, driving rains, and gale winds of 50-70 m.p.h.

The purpose of the journey has been to raise money to provide free camperships for asthmatic children who will be attending the 1978 SCAMP Camp, sponsored by the Lung Assn. of San Diego and Imperial Counties. Persons wishing to contribute to the fund should call the Lung Assn. at 297-3901.

The two riders travelled from 8 to 10 hours each day and averaged 85 miles per day. They carried maps of the entire route, spare parts and special lightweight tools.

Players may enter free of charge, regardless of ability, but they must be 19 years of age or older. The winning mixed doubles team of each preliminary will then represent their affiliation in the championship tournament April 28-30 (players should contact their club, park or school pro for further information).

Winners of the Buffums-'Kodel' Mixed Doubles Tournament will receive trophies, prizes and a traveling trophy for the club or park they represent, which will be on display for one year. Kim Jones and Mark Berner captured the trophy for Mesa Racquet Club by winning the First Annual 1977 Championship Tournament which was held at the Hotel del Coronado.

Brown's 'Era of Limits' Dies With New Budget

The "era of limits" is dead.

It was pronounced dead by its leading political advocate Governor Jerry Brown shortly before noon on January 9th.

For it was then that Jerry Brown submitted his budget for running the state to the Legislature. It totalled a record $17.4 billion.

Overnight Jerry Brown became the biggest spender in the history of California. Bigger than former Governor Ronald Reagan. Bigger even than Pat Brown, Sr.

$17.4 billion!

And it can't all be chalked up to inflation.

The non-partisan Legislative Analyst's office points out that state spending will have risen an average of 6.5 percent annually during Brown's four-year term.

The figures, adjusted for inflation and population growth, show a 5.7 percent growth during the administration of his father, Pat Brown Senior, and a miniscule 3.1 percent growth during the eight Reagan years, 1967 through 1974.

As you may recall this is the very same Jerry Brown who has been telling us for the past three years that we must "lower our expectations," that we live in an "era of limits" where government cannot provide all the solutions to our problems.

What then, caused this sudden and dramatic about-face?

It could very well have something to do with the fact that 1978 is an election year and Jerry Brown is faced with a challenge from five aggressive Republican candidates for governor.

So, the political thing to do is to pass around a little something for virtually everybody, or at least give them the impression you are going to.

In his budget message to the Legislature Brown was deliberately vague about where the bulk of the money was going to go. He did tell us he planned to build California's very own space satellite, however.

But Jerry Brown was being very much the politician in his calculated vagueness.

It was the second time that week we saw Brown the politician at work. In his less-than-ten-minute state of the State speech, Brown skipped specifics and concentrated on generalities telling us how wonderful everything was and that he was going to build us a space satellite and plant more trees.

The tone of his speech angered some members of the Legislature. "It was insulting, like he was trying to give us a high school civics lesson," Assembly Minority Leader Paul Priolo snorted.

Jerry Brown, the non-politician, was practicing politics' oldest axiom: "when you are the incumbent the goal is to keep the target small and harder to hit."

It's much the same technique Brown employed in his first gubernatorial campaign when he admittedly tried to make the entire campaign "as dull as possible."

But there is one big difference. The people have had four years of Jerry Brown. They have seen how quickly the "era of limits" goes into the trashcan to make way for political expediency.

The people won't be fooled this time around.

Decrease in Christmas Layoffs May Be Reason for Job Gains

Businesses who kept on holiday staffs may be the reason for the decrease in the unemployment rate in San Diego County.

Unemployment here has dipped to 9.3 percent according to December statistics compiled by the California Department of Employment Development.

Nationally the jobless rate dipped under 7 percent.

According to the EDD, 2,800 persons were hired on for the Christmas season, mostly by the large department stores.

Manufacturing industries hired an additional 700 workers while farm labor increased by 300 workers.

Locally, dips were recorded in construction and for government.

The construction industry showed a seasonal drop of 200 workers. Last year some 3,400 construction workers were laid off. Yet, EDD said, the employment reading was taken before the inclement weather of Christmastime 1977 and further drops may later show up.

The reasons cited for the drops in the government employment rolls was attributed to post-election staff cutbacks. About 200 government workers lost their jobs and the EDD said these losses "more than offset gains in post office workers."

Also service industries showed employment losses due to a drop in tourism.

Students Need Homes

Some 125 teenage students from Central and South America will be arriving in San Diego for one semester of school.

These students will need host families while they are staying in this country.

To become a host family call collect the Service at (714) 492-7907 or write the Youth Exchange Service, Box 4020, San Clemente, CA 92672.

CRIME FIGHT

Tip of the Week

You wouldn't advertise for a Burglar, would you? If you leave your house unlocked, or completely dark at night, if you let mail or newspapers pile up on your porch . . . you advertise your absence and invite burglaries. Have a security survey done in your home. The Sheriff's Department reminds you, don't advertise for a burglar.

The material is supplied by the S.D. County Sheriff's Department as part of an ongoing crime suppression program.

Sankey Wins Veep Post On Equalization Board

San Diego's Iris Sankey was elected 1978 vice-chairman of the State Board of Equalization.

California's senior elected official, George R. Reilly, of San Francisco. was elected president. He represents the state's First Equalization District, which consists of 21 counties, extending from the San Francisco Bay Area through central and southern California, into the northern portion of Los Angeles County.

Reilly served as vice-chairman of the Board for the past two years. His 1978 term as chairman will be his 10th during his tenure on the Board of Equalization.

Iris Sankey of Solana Beach represents the Second Equalization District—9 counties in central and southern California, extending from San Diego County northward through Fresno County.

She is chairwoman of the County Energy Committee and president of the Palomar College Development Foundation.

William M. Bennett, who served as chairman for the past two years, represents the Third Equalization District, which is composed of 28 northern California counties.

Richard Nevins represents the Fourth Equalization District. It encompasses most of Los Angeles County, the state's most populous area.

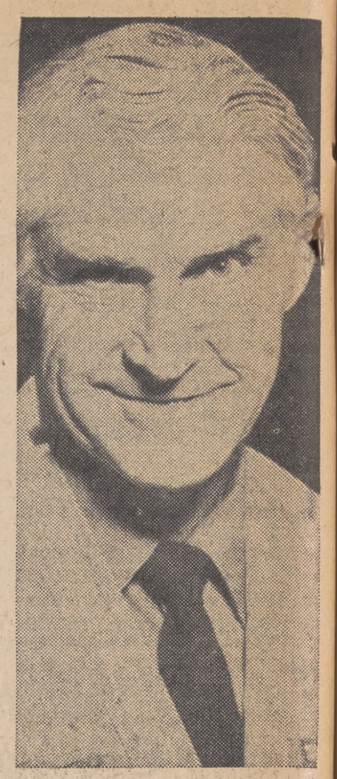
Each of California's four Equalization Districts has a population of approximately 5.5 million.

State Controller Kenneth Cory is the fifth Board member, elected to serve the state at-large.

Metric Man is Director

John H. Corbett, of Spring Valley, who writes the metric system column appearing weekly in this newspaper, has been elected to the board of directors of the U.S. Metric Assn., Western area. Louis F. Sokol of Boulder, Colo., was elected president.

The coffee tree is native to Ethopia.



CITED FOR DISTINGUISHED SERVICE to Boy Scouts was George R. Bascom of Spring Valley. Bascom received the Silver Beaver Award at ceremonies held Saturday night in Golden Hall.

Time Limits Set On EIR Agencies

As required by the State Legislature (Assembly Bill 884), lead agencies must now adopt time limits for certifying environmental impact reports (EIRs) and negative declarations.

A resolution establishing these time limits within the County of San Diego has been approved 4-0 by the Board of Supervisors, also acting as boards of directors for the Sanitation and Flood Control Districts.

AB 884 adds the requirement that lead agencies establish time limits not to exceed one year for completing and certifying EIRs and 105 days for negative declarations for projects involving issuance to a person of a lease, permit, license, certificate or other use entitlement.

Because of conflicting public resources codes regarding time limit extensions, staff will present proposed ordinances to the Board of Supervisors for providing extensions if anticipated clean-up legislation has not been adopted by late February 1978.

Because AB 884 affects several other aspects of the County permit processing system, staff will report back to the Board later on its evaluation of details, including additional action for ensuring compliance, clean-up legislation proposals and a detailed summary of the fiscal impact.

These legislative procedures will result in additional costs to the County, as yet undetermined. In spite of these costs, the State has found that reimbursement under SB 90 will not be required. Staff requirements will be announced in a later report by the Community Services Agency.

Free Neutering For Seniors' Pets

A grant for funding neutering animals adopted by senior citizens on fixed incomes has been received by the San Diego County Department of Animal Control.

The $25,000 grant was offered by the North Shore Animal League of Port Washington, Long Island, N.Y. and accepted 4-0 in principle by the Board of Supervisors.

The Animal League's grant offer was restricted to senior citizens on fixed incomes, paying —for neutering or spaying animals they adopt from any one of the County's animal shelters.

The pilot program grant will pay private veterinarians for neutering or spaying animals adopted from shelters by these senior citizens with the County providing free rabies vaccinations and a two-year dog license.

The grant fund will be paced in a Board-approved trust and dispensed in accordance with applicable fund rules and regulations.

Fiscal impact to the County at this time is about 50 cents an animal for the rabies vaccine, assuming these animals would not have been adopted under present circumstances.

Details on prospective adopters such as age and other factors will be developed through the Area Agency on Aging Advisory Council.

IT'S TIME TO GIVE YOUR FURNACE A PHYSICAL.

Your gas furnace needs a routine annual check-up, just like you do. It will operate more efficiently, and you'll be keeping your winter energy costs to a minimum.

Here's what you can do . . .

1. Turn on your thermostat to make sure your furnace is working. If you turned off your pilot light in the spring, make sure you turn it back on.
2. Any forced air heating system requires periodic filter changes. Otherwise your blower will be running needlessly and wasting energy.
3. Blower motors that require oiling, should receive a few drops periodically.

and what your heating service man can do . . .

1. Any heating service company will inspect, adjust and clean your pilot light and burner.
2. They will also inspect and clean the venting system, heat exchanger and thermostat.
3. They will check out the entire furnace for efficient operation, which means energy savings.

YOUR FURNACE DEALER MAKES HOUSE CALLS.

Look him up in the Yellow Pages under "Furnaces" or "Heating" Sales & Service. At today's energy prices, the amount you'll save with an efficient operating furnace could easily more than pay for the inspection.

And, remember, in case of emergencies, such as a gas leak, SDG&E is only a phone call away.

Applauds SB 650

On January 1, a new law took effect in California which promises to be more substance than rhetoric.

It was authored by Sen. John A. Nejedly (R-Walnut Creek) and is entitled "The Litter Control, Recycling and Resource Recovery Act."

We believe it offers a positive approach to the state's litter and solid waste management problems and should strike a responsive chord with the people of California.

The Industry Environmental Council (IEC) joins with a long list of governmental, business, labor and environmental groups in supporting this act because industry is proud to accept its responsibility in preserving and protecting the quality of our environment.

The act attacks the problem of total litter equitably by placing a small assessment on all manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers of products which end up in the litter stream. It does not place the financial burden on the consumer or taxpayer.

The funds generated by this law—estimated to be approximately $18 million annually—will be used to support recycling programs, fund research and development projects aimed at recovering resources and energy from waste, and cleanup of recreational lands and public thoroughfares.

The "California Environment Act," as it is being referred to, can mean a cleaner, healthier and more aesthetically pleasing California and we urge your readers to support it.

Sincerely,
John Gallagher, Chairman
Industry Environmental Council.

Marking Pencils

Crime is increasing throughout the County. The Lemon Grove/San Diego Information & Referral Center, in cooperation with the Sheriff's Office has the program "Operation Identification" which helps to discourage theft and burglary by identification of valuables, and warning thieves that this action has been taken.

Electric engraving pencils are used for marking. These are loaned to the public on a $6 deposit, when the pencil is returned the person who borrows the pencil, is given a brochure — "Operation Identification," instructions on how to use the pencil and window stickers. The stickers warn that items in the house have been marked.

People should call 465-7422 to reserve a pencil because the demand is heavy.

(b) No tentative map or tentative parcel map received prior to the effective date of this section by the Department of Land Use and Environmental Regulation shall hereafter be approved unless it contains a condition that the final map or parcel map shall not be approved unless the Board of Supervisors finds that all sewage emanating from the proposed subdivision will be disposed of other than into the Spring Valley Sanitation District — Casa de Oro Trunk Sewer.

TRANSPLANT — A Monterey Pine tree that graced the Crocker National bank during the holidays was given to the City of Lemon Grove by bank manager Robert Guest. He said his ecological sensibilities had been aroused when big, flocked, cut Christmas trees were carted off to the dump after the holidays. He began buying living trees then giving them for transplant. Ginger Crimm, L.G. Mayor Jim Dorman and Geri Hansen, take part in the transplantation. The two girls are Crocker employees. In the 2 years past, Crocker has given living trees to St. John of the Cross Catholic church for its new fellowship hall, and to Skyline Wesleyan church for its new sanctuary.

Van Says Storm, Peso Are 2 S.D. 'Disasters'

San Diego County has been declared eligible for two types of low-interest loan programs by the federal Small Business Adm. Rep Lionel Van Deerlin, D-Chula Vista, was advised.

One program would help businesses and home owners repair damages caused by the wind and rain storms which struck the county December 20, while the other is designed to aid small businesses—mainly near the border—which can show they have been harmed by the devaluation of the Mexican peso.

SBA told Van Deerlin it estimated storm damages at more than $10 million. Maximum loans available for restoring property are $55,000 for homeowners and $500,000 for businesses.

Subsidized interest rates range from a low of one percent for homeowners receiving $10,000 or less up to 6 5/8 percent for several categories of loans.

Van Deerlin said he was pleased the SBA acted so promptly, within 3 weeks following the storm. He termed the offer of hardship loans to businesses suffering from a loss of Mexican trade a "breakthrough" long urged by himself and other congressmen representing border areas.

Small businesses hurt by the peso devaluation will be eligible for loans of up to $100,000 with a 6 5/8 percent interest cost.

Smaller concerns can receive similar "economic injury" loans for losses in addition to actual property damages suffered as a result of the December storms.

The SBA said about 300 home, 15 businesses and 40 other structures such as schools and churches were damaged by the storm and may be eligible for the loans.

Van Deerlin said persons who want to inquire about the loans should contact their local SBA office.

Parks To Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Special activities are planned at many of the park in the California State Park System to commemorate the 50th birthday of the Department of Parks and Recreation.

The system was first established in 1928 as part of the Department of Natural Resources and has since grown to 250 parks, historic sites, state beaches, recreational areas, and nature preserves.

A special birthday party will be held May 6 at Big Basin Redwoods State Park near Santa Cruz with the Governor and dignitaries taking part.

Symphony 'Pops' Tickets Ready

Tickets go on sale Monday, January 23, for the San Diego Symphony Orchestra's two cabaret style "pops" concerts to be held February 21 and March 13 in Golden Halls, reports Richard Bass, the Orchestra's general manager.

The February concert features noted jazz clarinetist Benny Goodman as guest soloist with the Orchestra, conducted by Charles Ketcham, associate conductor. Popular tones from the jazz era will be performed.

For the March program, Academy Award-winning composer Henry Mancini will conduct the Orchestra in a medley of his famous hits from movies and television.

Old Time Days (Con't)

has been set for April 8. This year's parade will be under the direction of Lou Ann Holiday of Lemon Grove Motors.

Also on April 8 at Lemon Grove Junior High Auditorium will be the annual square dance. Ron East is chairman.

Overseeing the Old Time Days Celebration this year is Chairman Howard Coberly.

Also, volunteers are needed to put finishing touches on the event. The committee meets in Mayor Jim Dorman's conference room on Broadway ave. on January 25 at 7 p.m. The meeting are open to local resident and the committee is especially interested in ideas and volunteers.

Family Strife Eyed by Chacon

SACRAMENTO — Assemblyman Peter R. Chacon (D-San Diego) has asked the California Legislature to throw its support behind a national program to reduce marital violence.

"This year California will lead the nation with the establishment of four-to-six domestic violence centers. We have recognized that the beatings and even deaths that occur within families are a social concern of great proportion. And while the greatest number of incidents occur among the poor, the phenomenon does not respect socio-economic lines," Chacon said.

The resolution introduced by Chacon asks the U.S. Congress to approve HR 8948 by Congresswoman Barbara Mikulski (D-Maryland), which would set up a national center for community action against family violence. The center would recruit and train volunteers from local communities across the country and establish and operate battered spouse shelters and hotlines.

League Field

mise was hammered out.

The county required the Little League to 1) put in a drainage system and 2) compact the area to 90 percent of its original consistency.

The League then purchased some 710 feet of drainage pipe at a cost of $9,000 to meet the first county requirement.

Working solely with volunteer labor and borrowed equipment, the drainage pipe was installed early last February.

Placing the drainage pipe down the lowest points of the canyon, League volunteers included three inlet drains and an underground drainage system.

The canyon at its lowest point was some 30 feet deep and some 75 feet across.

Fill dirt taken from the high slopes on the Monterey Heights side of the property owned by the Little League, was then scraped over the drainage pipe.

Some 32,000 yards of dirt was shaved from the hillside adjacent to Montery Heights School to fill the area.

Then, the leveled area was compacted to 96 percent of its original consistency, well beyond the minimum standards decreed by the county.

The Facility

The new Little League facility will house two baseball fields, both with center fields about 200 feet from home plate.

Planned later for inbetween the fields on the Monterey Heights School side of the complex will be a new $20,000-plus snack bar.

Home plates for both fields will be on the Monterey Heights side of the property with one diamond facing the existing Little League fields and the other angled northwest toward Ensenada street some 500 yards away.

Left for finishing at the site is important grass seeding work, the construction of backstops and fences, player dug-outs, bleachers, and the laying out of the fields.

League spokesman Danner said the project from its very inception had been built on blood, sweat and donation.

"Without the support of the community," Danner said, "none of this would have happened."

"We make it only through the donations from the community. Without continued support of the park and Little League, the whole effort will have been in vain."

So far, more than 600 local people have been involved in the effort.

Further, flood control officials are overjoyed at the improvements to the flood prone canyon area.

In the words of Danner, "They (the flood control district) love us."

But if the ultimate goal—facilities to accommodate the expanding Lemon Grove Little League program already bursting at the seams with 24 teams — is to be reached, increased citizen involvement is vital.

Traffic Reports Added by Radio 76

As traffic increases in the greater San Diego metropolitan area, so does the need for a more comprehensive reporting system of those conditions become necessary according to San Diego's 76 KFMB Radio, has started its own program.

Paul E. Palmer, station manager of KFMB said the 76 KFMB Traffic Control has been formed to provide exclusive on-air coverage of traffic conditions at peak drive times in mornings and afternoons beginning Monday morning.

Under the direction of Lyle Davis, a traffic reporting commentator, the reports will be aired daily 6-8 a.m. and again 4-6 p.m.

Davis will offer station listeners a unique approach to traffic reporting.

The main purpose of the program, he said, will be to provide the most timely and accurate reporting of traffic conditions as possible to San Diego motorists.

Whenever possible he will combine humor, poetry and as much "human interest" material as he can, providing an informative system with an added touch of entertainment for listeners.

76 KFMB Radio, it was reported, has signed an agreement with the Padres Baseball organization to carry exclusive radio broadcasts of all pre-season and regular season games beginning in 1979. KFMB Radio also carries exclusively broadcasts of all the S.D. Aztec football and basketball games.

Traffic Control programs adds still another dimension to the station's involvement in San Diego.

Budget Study On Part-Timers Eyed by Sups

A consulting firm has been selected to provide the County of San Diego with budget guideline data on permanent part-time employment (PPTE).

With a 4-0 vote, the San Diego County Board of Supervisors approved authorization of a trainer/consultant service agreement with Management Training Team, Inc. (MTT) to conduct a study analyzing and implementing a permanent part-time employment program in the county.

Special emphasis in the study will be to determine cost effectiveness of such a policy, with establishment of specific goals and procedures.

A County Personnel Department committee determined MTT as best qualified to conduct the study. MTT's final report will be included in the Budget Issues document to be submitted to the Board on May 5, by the County's Office of Management and Budget.

In April, 1976, the Board of Supervisors adopted a recommendation by the Commission on the Status of Women encouraging appointing authorities to use PPTE as part of staffing practices and in October of 1977, PPTE was adopted as a consideration in the 1978-79 budget guidelines.

Oil Furnace Booklet

The Consumer Information Center in Colorado has a pamphlet they claim will save homeowners some money on their oil fired furnaces.

The pamphlet includes such tips as getting a service technician to check out the amount of heat older units are putting out. If these units are operating at 60 percent efficiency, then the pamphlet recommends they be replaced.

The booklet is available through the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 602F, Pueblo, Coorado 81009.

The booklet, titled: "How to Improve the Efficiency of Your Oil-Fired Furnace" is free.

Metric System; How it Works

By John Corbett

This isn't a review. It's a correction.

The recent article having to do with prefix names and values and conversion from metres to kilometers was overcomplete. The editor put commas between numbers as is common today in this country.

This is an error in the metric system. Commas are not used to separate number group. A space is used instead. This is because SI is an international system and in some countries a comma is used as we use a decimal point.

Prefix names and prefix values are listed:

exa—1 000 000 000 000 000 000
peta—1 000 000 000 000 000
tera—1 000 000 000 000
giga—1 000 000 000
mega—1 000 000
kilo—1 000
hecto—100
deka—10
unit—1
deci—0.1
centi—0.01
milli—0.001
micro—0.000 001
nano—0.000 000 001
pico—0.000 000 000 001
femto—0.000 000 000 000 001
atto—0.000 000 000 000 000 001

As you can see, there are no commas; just spaces. Notice, also, that when writing numbers less than one, a zero is used to the left of the decimal point.

Up An Average of 32 Cents

Water Increases Due in July

Water Bills are going up slightly beginning this July 1.

According to the San Diego County Water Authority, the surcharge rate districts pay for water jumped from $2 an acre-foot to $2.50.

This will mean increases in water bills of between 5 and 60 cents a month.

The Metropolitan Water District's price for water will rise from $67 per acre-foot to $74. Member agencies such as Helix and Otay Water Districts will have to pay $76.50 an acre-foot for untreated water.

The surcharge rate for water hasn't been increased since July of 1975.

During this time, he has been a part of the Club's growth from the original branch in Logan Heights to the present four branches.

Sups to Contract Custodial Service

Custodial service contracts are being expanded for County of San Diego facilities.

With a 4-0 vote, the Board of Supervisors approved the use of contract cleaning for all new County facilities.

In addition, existing facilities will be converted to contract cleaning based on normal phasing out of County employees and continued satisfactory experience with contractors.

Contract cleaning for the Comprehensive Health Center was started in August 1977 with a later satisfactory performance report to the Board.

In expanding such types of contracts, it is believed to be cost effective in the smaller facilities and worth considering for larger.

Cost benefits, however, will be evaluated between County provided and contract services on an individual basis, with findings reported if a change in approval is indicated.

The Board also voted to reinstate $982,472 in frozen custodial services for the 1977-78 budget and directed the Custodial Services program manager to monitor cost effectiveness and contract cleaning quality, reporting annually during the regular budget process.

Ask Your C.H.P.

CHP Capt. C.M. Louglas

Last week Captain Douglas told of the effect of the 55 mph speed limit.

This Week's Question:

I am a resident of the City of Lemon Grove and am wondering what agency will patrol Lemon Grove?

This Week's Answer:

Currently the CHP handles traffic enforcement while the Sheriff's Department handles other law enforcement. Due to manpower shortages in the Highway Patrol, we have been advised by CHP headquarters in Scramento to discontinue any efforts to contact with cities for traffic enforcement. So effective July 1, 1978, the CHP will no longer patrol within the city limits of Lemon Grove. It appears as though the Sheriffs Department will handle traffic enforcement in addition to their regular enforcement activities.
